ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The considerable talents and efforts of many individuals helped to assure the success of the 2011 City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey Jurisdictional Report. The City of San Jose and Applied Survey Research (ASR) would like to thank the donors and sponsors of this project and the many service providers who assisted in the administration of surveys, facilitated the process of homeless peer enumeration by recruiting census workers, and opened the doors of their facilities to host training sessions, deploy census workers, or distribute surveys. The City of San Jose, the County of Santa Clara, and ASR would also like to thank the hundreds of community volunteers who participated in these efforts. Finally, the City of San Jose and ASR would like to thank the homeless census and survey workers, as well as the survey respondents, whose efforts are reflected throughout this report.

INTRODUCTION

Close to two million Americans experience homelessness each year. For most, this is caused by the gap between their income and the cost of housing. Yet for many, physical and mental health conditions, substance abuse, trauma, and a lack of support from family and the community to prevent them from obtaining and maintaining permanent housing.

Biennially, communities across the country conduct comprehensive counts of their homeless population, in order to gain a better understanding of the current homeless population, and to qualify for federal funding for homeless programs. The City of San Jose has worked in conjunction with Applied Survey Research (ASR) to conduct the 2011 City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey of adults, families and unaccompanied children. ASR is a non-profit social research firm based in the counties of Santa Clara and Santa Cruz, California, with extensive experience in homeless enumeration and research.

The 2011 City of San Jose point-in-time (PIT) count was part of the larger Santa Clara County point-intime count. The count and subsequent surveys provide information about the homeless population that is critical to program and service planning, helps to inform the allocation of resources for services to help the homeless, and offers a means of measuring the impact of homeless programs and services.

All jurisdictions receiving federal funding to provide housing and services for the homeless through the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Grant are required by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to conduct a biennial point-in-time count of unsheltered and sheltered homeless persons sometime during the last ten days of January. Currently the County of Santa Clara receives $11.3 million in Homeless Assistance Grant funding. This is a critical source of funding for homeless services.

The San Jose Homeless Census had two components: a point-in-time enumeration of unsheltered homeless individuals and families (those sleeping outdoors, on the street, in parks, or vehicles, etc.) and a point-in-time enumeration of homeless individuals and families who have temporary shelter (those staying in an emergency shelter, transitional housing, safe haven or using motel vouchers). Due to the large size of Santa Clara County, the entire county was canvassed over a period of two days, from five deployment locations in Gilroy, San Jose, Santa Clara, Cupertino and Palo Alto. The count was conducted by teams of trained homeless workers and community volunteers. This unsheltered homeless enumeration methodology, developed by ASR in 2001, has been highlighted by HUD in the 2008 Guide to Counting Unsheltered Homeless People.

The unsheltered street enumeration was divided into two separate counts: a primary count of homeless individuals and families, and a secondary count which focused on unaccompanied children and youth (children without a guardian and under the age of 25). The primary count took place during the early mornings of January 25 and 26, 2011. The unaccompanied children and youth count took place in the afternoons of January 25 and 26, 2011, from approximately 3:00 pm to 7:00 pm, when children and youth were more likely to be visible in the community.

In order to capture the number of homeless individuals and families staying in shelters and transitional housing programs, shelter providers in the county completed an online survey of homeless individuals and families who occupied their facility on the night of January 24, 2011.

In addition to the homeless census, an in-depth 32-question survey was administered in the weeks following the street count to 674 sheltered and unsheltered homeless individuals in the City of San Jose. The survey was designed to yield qualitative data about the adult homeless population. Unaccompanied homeless children and youth also took the adult survey, and answered an additional 28 question survey that asked about their specific circumstances. A total of 152 unaccompanied homeless children and youth living in San Jose answered these additional questions.

This report provides data on the overall homeless population and focuses special attention on specific subpopulations including chronically homeless, veterans, families and unaccompanied children and youth. These groups have been identified by the federal government as populations of particular interest in the 2011 point-in-time counts. Data from prior years and from the entire County of Santa Clara are provided for comparison where appropriate.

Federal Definition of Homelessness

In this study, the federal definition of homelessness² was used:

- An individual who lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence, and
- An individual who has a primary nighttime residence that is:
 - » A supervised publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations (including welfare hotels, congregate shelters, and transitional housing for the mentally ill), or
 - » An institution that provides a temporary residence for individuals intended to be institutionalized, or
 - » A public or private place not designated for, or ordinarily used as, a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings.

Certain homeless individuals are excluded from this definition, including: unsheltered homeless individuals who were "doubled-up" in the homes of family or friends; and sheltered homeless individuals in jails, hospitals, and rehabilitation facilities.

Project Purpose and Goals

HUD uses information from the local point-in-time counts, among other data sources, in the congressionally-mandated Annual Homeless Assessment Report to Congress (AHAR). This report is meant to inform Congress about the number of people experiencing homelessness in the United States and the effectiveness of HUD's programs and policies in decreasing those numbers.

² Title 42, Chapter 119, Subchapter I, §10302(a) of the U.S. Code of Federal Regulations for Homeless Assistance.

The Project Committee identified several important project goals:

- To preserve current federal funding for homeless services and to enhance the ability to raise new funds;
- To improve the ability of policy makers and service providers to plan and implement services that meet the needs of the local homeless population;
- To measure changes in the number and characteristics of the homeless population since the 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey was conducted, and to track progress toward ending homelessness;
- To increase public awareness of overall homeless issues and generate support for constructive solutions;
- To assess the status of chronic homelessness, homeless veterans, homeless families and unaccompanied homeless children and youth (without a guardian and under the age of 25).

The results of this research will assist service providers, policy makers, funders, and local, state, and federal governments to better understand and plan for the needs of the homeless population. It is hoped that the 2011 City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey will help policy makers and service providers to more effectively develop services and programs to serve the city's homeless population.

CITY OF SAN JOSE POINT-IN-TIME COUNT AND ANNUAL ESTIMATION

The point-in-time street count was conducted on January 25 and 26, 2011 from approximately 5:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. Census enumerators canvassed all 194 U.S. Census Tracts in the city. In conjunction with the street count, shelters reported their occupancies for the night of January 24, 2011. Shelter providers reported the number of homeless persons occupying emergency shelters, transitional housing, and domestic violence shelters. Special youth enumeration teams consisting of current and formerly homeless youth, and youth service providers enumerated unaccompanied homeless children and youth on the afternoons of January 25 and 26, from approximately 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. The number of unaccompanied homeless children and youth were integrated into the overall census findings.³

- A total of 4,034 homeless people were counted in the City of San Jose on January 25 and 26, 2011.
 - » Of the homeless people counted, the majority (76%) were unsheltered (3,057 individuals). This included the individuals counted on the streets, as well as the number of people estimated to be living in the occupied cars, vans, RVs, encampments, and abandoned buildings that were counted by enumeration teams.⁴
 - » Nearly one-quarter (24%) were sheltered (977 individuals). This number included individuals who were occupying emergency shelters (including domestic violence shelters) and transitional housing facilities.
- Persons in families made up 8% of the 2011 point-in-time count homeless population, compared to 9% in 2009.
 - » Persons in families made up 1% of the unsheltered homeless population,⁵ which was equal to the amount of unsheltered homeless families in 2009.
 - » 31% of the sheltered population was persons in homeless families, a slight decrease from 32% in 2009.
- The total number of homeless individuals enumerated in emergency shelters (including domestic violence shelters) and transitional housing facilities decreased slightly between 2009 and 2011.6

» The number of homeless individuals counted in emergency shelters decreased by 151 individuals (667 in 2009), while the number of homeless individuals counted in transitional housing facilities increased by 47 individuals (414 in 2009).⁷

¹Shelter service providers were not asked to indicate the gender of individuals in families, which resulted in the large number of persons in the "undetermined gender" category.

² It should be noted that some changes in the shelter count do not represent a loss of inventory, but rather a re-classification of the bed "type" that reflects a programming or funding change for the shelter organization. This report does not attempt to analyze all longitudinal changes in homeless bed and family unit inventory nor potential changes in funding sources. All shelter reporting is the result of agency self-reporting, HMIS comparison and follow-up by ASR staff and the Census project committee's county and jurisdictional representatives. This includes a thorough comparison of the current inventory to previous reports including the annual HUD eSNAPS Housing Inventory Chart required of all Continuums.

City-wide Annual Estimation

A point-in-time (PIT) homeless enumeration has an inherent bias of not capturing homeless persons who experience short episodes of homelessness during other times of the year. More people experience homelessness annually than can be counted at any given point-in-time, as people cycle in and out of homelessness. For example, someone may be homeless between February and May, and another person may become homeless between October and January. Counting only those persons found in a January census could under-represent those experiencing homelessness in the other months of the year.

Therefore, based on the survey responses of the 2011 Santa Clara County Homeless Survey for the City of San Jose, ASR used the annualization formula detailed by the Corporation for Supportive Housing to calculate an annual estimate of the number of homeless persons in the City of San Jose over the course of a year. This approach is the HUD-approved method for calculating the annual estimate of homeless persons based on the PIT count. The following is an explanation of the annualization calculation.

Three factors were used to determine the annual estimate:9

- A = The PIT count of currently homeless people (found in the street and shelter count);
- \blacksquare B = The number of currently homeless people who became homeless within the last 7 days; and
- $lue{}$ C = The proportion of currently homeless people who have experienced a previous homeless episode within the past 12 months.

The equation for calculating the annual estimate: A + [(B*51)*(1 - C)] = Annual estimate

■ For San Jose: $4,034 + [(201.7*51)*(1 - 0.338)] = 10,843.80 \approx 10,844$ persons

The annual estimate for the number of homeless people in San Jose was 10,844 persons. This was a 21% increase from the 2009 annual estimate of 8,941 persons.

Based on the 2007-2009 American Community Survey 3-Year Estimates population profile, this annual estimate of homelessness represented approximately 1% of the City of San Jose's total population of 948,244 people.¹⁰

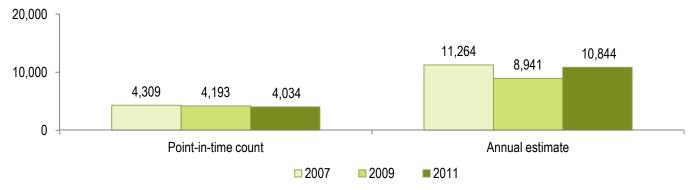

The largest factor that contributed to the increase in the annual estimate was the rise in the percentage of homeless individuals who became homeless within the last seven days (variable "B"). In 2009, 3.4% of the currently homeless population became homeless in the week prior to the survey. In 2011, the percentage increased to 5.0%, resulting in a larger "B" variable in the PIT-to-annual estimate calculations. When this "B" variable was multiplied by 51 to estimate the number of newly homeless people in the other 51 weeks of the year, an even larger increase was seen.

⁹ Burt, M. and C. Wilkens. (March 2005). Estimating the Need: projecting from point-in-time to annual estimates of the number of homeless people in a community and using this information to plan for permanent supportive housing. Corporation for Supportive Housing.

U.S. Census Bureau. (2011). 2007-2009 American Community Survey 3-Year Estimates. Washington, D.C.
 Applied Survey Research, 2011

In reviewing the other factors that could have affected the outcome of the PIT-to-annual estimate calculation (variables "A" and "C"), not as large of a change was seen. The PIT count (variable "A") decreased slightly from 4,193 in 2009 to 4,034 in 2011, while the percentage of currently homeless people who experienced two or more episodes of homelessness in the past year stayed relatively constant, from 35% to 34% (variable "C").

HOMELESS SURVEY FINDINGS

This section provides an overview of the findings generated from the 2011 Santa Clara County Homeless Survey for the City of San Jose. Surveys were administered between January 27 and March 26, 2011, providing 674 completed, unique surveys. Missing values have been intentionally omitted from the survey results. Therefore, the total number of respondents for each question will not always equal the total number of surveys.¹¹

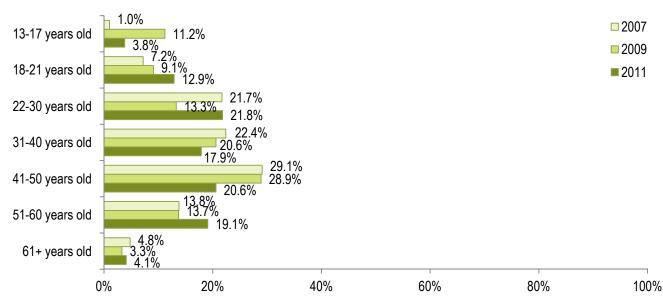

Demographics

In order to measure the diversity of homeless residents in the City of San Jose, respondents were asked several demographic questions pertaining to their age, gender, and race/ethnicity.

Age

- 39% of survey respondents were between 31-50 years old.
- The percentage of those ages 51–60 increased from 14% in 2009 to 19% in 2011.
- 4% of survey respondents were youth under the age of 18.

Gender

■ The majority (64%) of the homeless survey respondents identified as male, 33% female, and 3% as transgender or "other."

Race/Ethnicity

- 42% identified as White/Caucasian, 28% Hispanic/Latino, 18% Black/African American, and 6% Asian.
 - » Compared to the overall city population, fewer homeless survey respondents identified as Asian or Hispanic/Latino.
- There were higher percentages of homeless survey respondents who identified as White/Caucasian and Black/African American than in the overall city population.¹²
 - » In the overall 2007-2009 city population, 31% of residents were White/Caucasian, 31% were Asian, and 3% were Black/African American.
 - » Nearly a third of city residents (32%) identified as being Hispanic/Latino.

Employment and Income

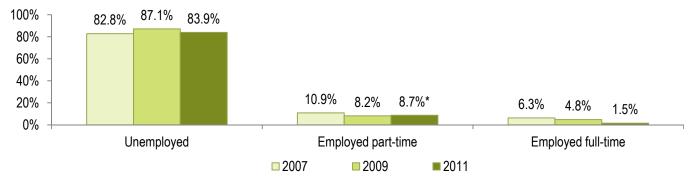

The 2011 U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Federal Poverty Guidelines for one person is approximately $908 per month.¹⁷ However, the local self-sufficiency standard is a more realistic measure of the true cost of living. The self-sufficiency standard measures the income needed for families to meet their basic needs without subsidies. The self-sufficiency standard for a single person in Santa Clara County is $2,353 per month.¹⁸

Survey respondents cited a lack of income as having a strong impact on homelessness in the City of San Jose. In 2011, some survey respondents reported income from employment, public assistance or disability benefits. However for most respondents, their income was limited and did not meet the Federal Poverty Guidelines.

Employment Status

- 84% of survey respondents indicated that they were not employed at the time of the survey, compared to 87% in 2009.
 - » The unemployment rate for the overall population of the City of San Jose was 11.4% during February 2011.¹⁹
 - » 9% of survey respondents were employed part-time. This included those who reported seasonal employment and day laborers.
 - » 2% were employed full-time.

Access to Government Assistance and Homeless Programs

Government assistance and homeless programs work to enable persons who are homeless to obtain income and services.²² However, many homeless people do not apply for these programs, or do not feel they qualify for aid.

Government Assistance

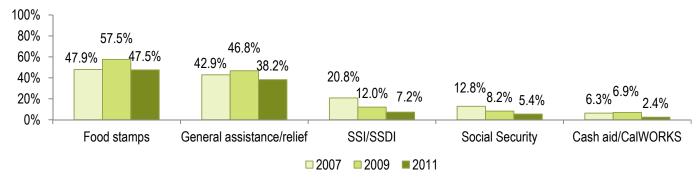

- 70% of survey respondents reported receiving some form of government assistance, while 31% reported not receiving any such assistance.
- Between 2009 and 2011, the percentage of respondents who were receiving some form of government assistance increased from 46% to 69%.
 - » Of those respondents receiving some form of government assistance, the percentage who was receiving Food Stamps decreased from 56% to 48% between 2009 and 2011.
 - » 38% of those receiving some form of government assistance were receiving General Assistance or General Relief, while 7% were receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI).²³

• Nearly half (47%) of survey respondents reported regular use of the internet.

Medical Care and Health Conditions

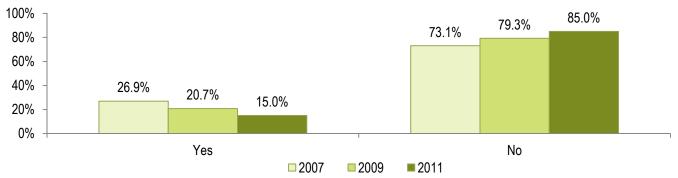

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the average life expectancy of the average American is 78 years. In 2005, a study released by the National Health Care for the Homeless Council, looked at homeless mortality rates in seven cities throughout the United States, Canada and Europe, and found that the average life expectancy for a person without permanent housing was between 42 and 52 years. The study also indicated that premature death often results from acute and chronic medical conditions aggravated by living on the street with limited access to health care.²⁵

Access to Medical Care

Access to health care is vital to general well-being. While many residents of the City of San Jose struggle with the high costs of health care, homeless residents are particularly vulnerable to many unique challenges regarding their health.

15% of homeless survey respondents reported that since becoming homeless this time, they were unable to receive necessary health care, a decrease from 21% in 2009.

- 43% of survey respondents in 2011 said that their health problems keep them from getting employment.

Disabling Conditions

For the purposes of this study, a disabling condition was defined as a physical disability, mental illness, Post-traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), alcohol/drug abuse, severe depression, chronic health problems, HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, Hepatitis C, or a developmental disability.

- Between 2009 and 2011, the percentage of all survey respondents citing one or more disabling conditions increased from 69% to 73%.²⁶
- 13% of 2011 survey respondents reported four or more disabling conditions.

Mental Health

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) reports that 20-25% of homeless individuals suffer from some form of mental illness; a disproportionate percentage of the population when compared to 6% of the general public.²⁷ In order to assess the current needs and demographics of the population, homeless survey respondents were asked about their mental health including mental illness and depression.

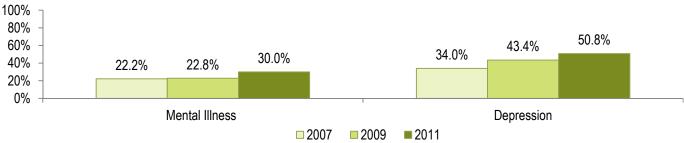

• In 2011, 39% of survey respondents had at least one mental health issue.

Substance Abuse

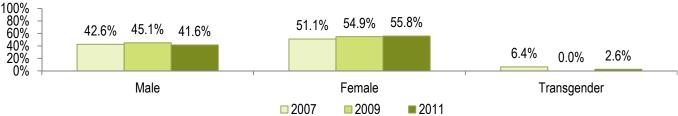

Substance use (alcohol or drugs) was the second-most cited cause of homelessness among the homeless persons surveyed in the City of San Jose.

- 47% of survey respondents experienced alcohol and/or drug abuse problems in 2011, an increase from 39% in 2009.
 - » Of respondents who were experiencing alcohol or drug abuse in 2011, 34% cited the use of alcohol or drugs as the primary cause of their homelessness.
 - » Between 2009 and 2011, the percentage of respondents who were experiencing substance abuse and were not receiving alcohol or drug counseling remained fairly constant (86% and 88%, respectively).

Domestic/Partner Violence or Abuse

- The percentage of survey respondents who were experiencing domestic violence or abuse at the time of the survey increased slightly from 10% to 12% between 2009 and 2011.
 - » 25% of the female homeless population and 9% of the male population reported experiencing domestic violence or abuse.
 - » Of those who were experiencing domestic violence or abuse 42% were male, 56% were female and 3% were transgender.

■ In 2011, the percentage of respondents who were experiencing domestic violence or abuse who reported domestic/family violence as the primary cause of their homelessness was 9%.

Incarceration

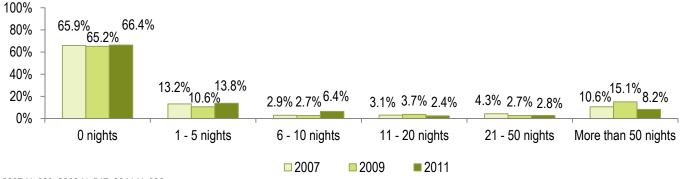

Transition from Jail or Prison

- 7% of survey respondents indicated that immediately before they became homeless this time, they were in jail or prison.
 - » 5% of respondents cited incarceration as the primary event that led to their homelessness.
 - » Between 2009 and 2011, the percentage of respondents who indicated that their criminal record was keeping them from securing permanent housing stayed relatively constant (17% and 18%, respectively). The percentage of respondents who reported that their criminal record was keeping them from getting employment decreased, from 20% to 17%.

Nights in Jail or Prison

• 34% of survey respondents reported that they had spent at least one night in jail or prison in the year prior to the survey.

Probation or Parole

• 17% of survey respondents reported being on probation or parole when they most recently became homeless, compared to 24% in 2009.

Foster Care

Transition from Foster Care

• When survey respondents were asked if they had ever been in foster care, 14% indicated that they had.

HUD DEFINED HOMELESS SUBPOPULATIONS

Chronic Homelessness

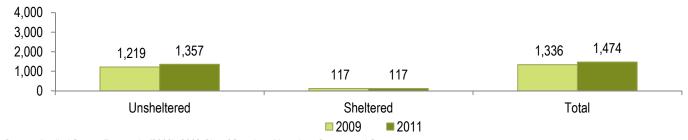

HUD defines a chronically homeless person or family as an unaccompanied homeless individual (18 or older) with a disabling condition or a family with at least one adult member (18 or older) who has a disabling condition who has either been continuously homeless for a year or more OR has had at least four (4) episodes of homelessness in the past three (3) years.

For the purposes of this study, a "disabling condition" was defined as a physical disability, mental illness, PTSD, severe depression, substance abuse, HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, Hepatitis C, chronic health problems, or a developmental disability. Persons currently living in transitional housing are not considered by HUD to be chronically homeless.

The mortality rate for chronically homeless men and women is four to nine times higher than for the general population. Those experiencing long-term homelessness often incur significant public costs through emergency room visits, run-ins with law enforcement, incarceration, and access to existing poverty and homeless programs.²⁸ In 2010, the federal government announced a 5-year plan to end chronic homelessness. The plan focuses on permanent supportive housing, reducing financial instability, and improving heath and housing stability.²⁹

- It is estimated that on any given night in 2011, the City of San Jose has approximately 1,474 chronically homeless persons. This represents a 10% increase from 1,336 chronically homeless persons in 2009.
- The number of chronically homeless individuals represents 37% of the total homeless population in 2011, compared to 32% in 2009 and 17% nationwide in 2010.
- The large majority (92%) of chronically homeless individuals were unsheltered in 2011.
- In 2011, HUD expanded the definition of chronic homelessness to include families. It is estimated that on any given night in 2011, there are 22 persons in chronically homeless families in the City of San Jose.

Veterans

National data shows that only eight percent (8%) of the general U.S. population can claim veteran status, but nearly one-fifth of the nation's homeless population is comprised of U.S. military veterans.³⁰

In general, veterans have high rates of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), traumatic brain injury, and sexual trauma, which can lead to higher risk for homelessness. About half of homeless veterans have serious mental illness and 70% have substance abuse problems. Half of homeless veterans have histories of involvement with the legal system. Veterans are more likely than the general homeless population to live outdoors, unsheltered, and experience long-term, chronic homelessness.³¹

The United States Interagency Council on Homelessness is facilitating collaborative efforts between the federal departments of Veteran's Affairs, Housing, Labor, and Health and Human Services (HHS) to realign resources for greater effectiveness by bringing together programs that would otherwise operate separately. In 2011, for the first time, the Department of Veteran's Affairs (VA) will use the national HUD Point-in-Time counts as the definitive count of homeless veterans. To determine veteran status among homeless survey respondents, the VA recommended the addition of two questions to the survey: "Have you ever served in the U.S. Armed Forces?" and "Were you activated into active duty, as a member of the National Guard or as a reservist?"

Number of Homeless Veterans

- It is estimated that on any given night in 2011, the City of San Jose has a homeless veteran population of 383 persons. This represents 10% of the total point-in-time homeless population.
 - » The majority (79%) of homeless veterans were unsheltered in 2011.

Homeless Families

National reports reveal that one of the fastest growing segments of the homeless population is families with children. Children in families experiencing homelessness have high rates of acute and chronic health problems and exposure to violence. Homeless children are more likely to have emotional and behavioral problems than children with consistent living accommodations.³⁶

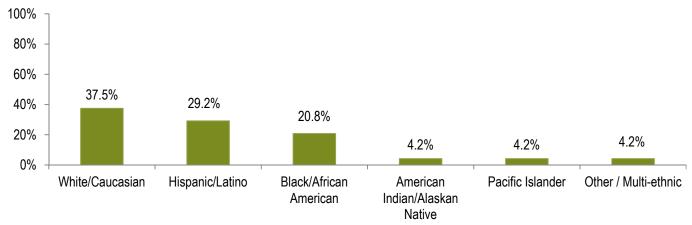

Number of Homeless Families

- There were a total of 336 persons in families counted in the City of San Jose in 2011. This represents a 13% decrease from the 384 persons in families counted in 2009.
 - » In 2011, 8% of the total homeless population in the City of San Jose consisted of persons in families.
- 90% of homeless families were sheltered, while 10% were unsheltered in 2011.

Demographics of Homeless Families

- In 2011, 48% of families were female headed households, 12% male headed households, 3% transgender headed households and 37% were married/partner headed households.
- Thirty-eight percent (38%) of homeless survey respondents with children indicated they were White/Caucasian, 29% were Hispanic/Latino, and 21% were Black/African American.

Government Assistance for Homeless Families

- The types of government assistance most commonly received by homeless individuals with children were Food Stamps (71%), Cash Aid/CalWORKs (42%), General Assistance (21%), and Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) (13%).³⁷ However, 21% of homeless survey respondents with children indicated that they were not receiving any government assistance.
- The most commonly cited services used by homeless survey respondents with children were free meals (58%), emergency shelters (58%), bus passes (50%), and shelter day services (38%).³⁸
- Thirteen percent (13%) of homeless survey respondents with children indicated that they were not using any services.

Usual Sleeping Places of Homeless Families

46% of homeless survey respondents with children indicated that they usually slept at a shelter (emergency or other type of shelter, or transitional housing) at night, followed by 17% who usually stayed in a hotel/motel.

Children living in Foster Care or Other Family Members

• Of the survey respondents who indicated they had children, 15% reported that they had one or more children in foster care.

Unaccompanied Homeless Children and Youth

"Unaccompanied children" are children under the age of 18 who are homeless and living independent of a parent or legal guardian. "Homeless youth" are defined as individuals who are homeless and are between the ages of 18 and 24 years old. Identifying and including unaccompanied homeless children and youth in the annual point-in-time count is challenging as the population remains separate from the adult homeless population and often hides from public view.

Data on the homeless youth population, both locally and nationally, is extremely limited. Yet this data suggests the negative effects of homelessness on children are high and those experiencing homelessness face even greater challenges than their adult counterparts. They have a harder time accessing services, including shelter, medical care and employment.³⁹ In 2011, the City of San Jose continued their previous efforts to include unaccompanied children and youth in the homeless census and extended their data collection by administering a youth specific survey.

The youth focused street count took place in the afternoons of January 25 and 26, 2011. The counts took place from approximately 3:00 pm to 7:00 pm, when children were more likely to be visible in the community. ASR worked with local youth service providers and hired local homeless youth to assist in conducting the count based on the belief that they had particular knowledge and access to areas where homeless children and youth congregate. As mentioned, in addition to being counted as part of the City's census, unaccompanied children and youth took the basic two-page survey and answered 28 additional survey questions that asked specifically about their circumstances as unaccompanied children. A total of 152 homeless youth and children in the City of San Jose answered the survey. The following section details results of both the youth specific count and survey.

CONCLUSION

The 2011 City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey was performed using HUD-recommended practices for counting the homeless population. This important effort provides valid and useful data regarding the homeless community in the City of San Jose. The 2011 enumeration built upon previous efforts and continued the compilation of comparable multi-year data on the experience of homelessness locally. Continued use of this methodology will enable the tracking of key indicators and gauge the changing conditions experienced by homeless individuals and families throughout the city.

It is hoped that the data presented in this report will be used by planning bodies of the City of San Jose, the County of Santa Clara and other organizations to inform additional outreach, service planning, and policy decision-making over the next two years as they continue to address homelessness. It is also hoped that this report will be disseminated to other jurisdictions and educational research institutions in order to gain feedback on the methodologies used and results obtained. By sharing and evaluating this enumeration effort and its results, the homeless support network in the City of San Jose and throughout Santa Clara County will be better able to produce constructive and innovative solutions to a problem that clearly affects many people in the community.

APPENDIX I: HOMELESS CENSUS AND SURVEY METHODOLOGY

Overview

The 2011 City of San Jose Point-in-Time count was part of the larger Santa Clara County Point-in-Time count. The County Point-in-Time count was a community-wide effort conducted on January 25-26. The purpose of the overall 2011 Santa Clara County Census was to produce a Point-in-Time estimate of the number of people in the county who experience homelessness. The results of the street count were combined with the results from the shelter count to produce the total number of homeless persons in the county. Data from the Census and Survey were collected by jurisdiction allowing for the later analysis of only those individuals and families residing in the city of San Jose. A more detailed description of the methodology used for the overall homeless census and survey follows.

Components of the Homeless Count Method

The census methodology had two components:

- The street count an enumeration of unsheltered homeless individuals.
- The shelter and institution count an enumeration of sheltered homeless individuals.

Street Count Methodology

Definition

For the purposes of this study, the HUD definition of an unsheltered homeless person was used: someone who is either living on the streets, or in a vehicle, encampment, abandoned building, unconverted garage, or any other place not normally used or meant for human habitation.

Research Design

Santa Clara County covers approximately 1,291 square miles. The city of San Jose alone covers 178 square miles and is the sixth largest city in the United States.⁴³ The logistics for conducting a point-in-time street count of homeless people in an area this large and densely populated required the enumeration to take place over a two-day period. The purpose of the street count was to conduct an enumeration of unsheltered homeless people over a specific measure of time. The unsheltered and sheltered homeless counts were coordinated to occur within the same time period in order to minimize potential duplicate counting of homeless persons.

Volunteer and Worker Recruitment

An enumeration effort of this magnitude can only be successful with the assistance of those who possess an intimate knowledge of the activities and locations of homeless people. Therefore, the recruitment and training of homeless people to work as enumerators was an essential part of the street count methodology. Previous research has shown that homeless people, teamed with community volunteers and staff members from homeless service agencies, can be part of a productive and reliable work force.

⁴³ U.S. Census Bureau, State and County Quick Facts, 2009.

To work on the street count, prospective enumerators were required to attend a 1-hour information and training session. Training sessions were held at multiple locations throughout Santa Clara County including multiple training sites in the city of San Jose. These sessions were attended primarily by homeless persons, staff from homeless service agencies, and staff from the City of San Jose and Santa Clara County. The techniques and methods used to identify and enumerate unsheltered homeless persons were reviewed during these training sessions. Those unable to attend a scheduled training, were given an abbreviated training on the day of the count.

Homeless persons who completed the required training session were paid $10.00 on the morning they reported to work for the street count. Homeless workers were also paid $10.00 per hour for their work on the count, and were reimbursed for any expenses (mainly transportation costs) they incurred during the hours they worked. 127 homeless guides were recruited to participate in the homeless census, 88 of those were able to attend training and 90 participated on the day of the count. In all, 250 homeless persons, homeless service providers, City and County workers, and community volunteers were recruited and trained. Due to illness and unforeseen circumstances, 208 guides and volunteers participated in the two day count.

Street Count Teams

On the mornings of the census, two-person teams were created to enumerate designated areas of the County for the street count. A team was ideally composed of one volunteer and one homeless person who had attended a training and information session. Given the expertise each team member brought to working in the field, the "volunteer / homeless worker" teamwork concept was especially beneficial for the street count.

Street count teams were provided with census tract maps of their assigned areas, census tally sheets, a review of the census training documents and techniques, and other supplies. Prior to deployment, volunteers and workers were provided with a reminder of how to enumerate thoroughly without disturbing homeless people or anyone else encountered during the street census. Over the two-day census period, all 341 census tracts in Santa Clara County were enumerated, including the 194 in San Jose.

Safety Precautions

Every effort was made to minimize potentially hazardous situations. Precautions were taken to prepare a safe environment in all deployment centers. Law enforcement districts were notified of pending street count activity in their jurisdictions. No official reports were received in regards to unsafe or at-risk situations occurring during the street count in any area of the County.

Street Count Deployment

Since it was necessary to conduct the enumeration over a period of two days, January 25 - 26, 2011, Santa Clara County was divided into two areas: the areas to the east and west of Highway 17 and Interstate 880. On January 25, the cities of Morgan Hill and Gilroy; portions of the cities of Los Gatos, Campbell, San Jose, and Milpitas; and the unincorporated areas in the eastern and southwestern parts of the County were enumerated. The following morning, January 26, the remaining portions of the cities of Los Gatos, Campbell, San Jose, and Milpitas; the cities of Palo Alto, Mountain View, Los Altos, Los Altos Hills, Sunnyvale, Santa Clara, Cupertino, Saratoga, Monte Sereno; and the unincorporated areas in the northwestern part of the County were enumerated.

The two-day enumeration effort was conducted between the hours of 5:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. This early morning enumeration strategy was selected in order to avoid duplicate counting of sheltered homeless persons and to increase the visibility of the street homeless.

Community volunteers, and City and County staff used personal or agency vehicles to transport homeless guides to and from assigned census tracts (although some homeless workers did provide their own transportation). All accessible streets, roads, and highways in the enumerated tracts were traveled by foot, bike, or car. The two person teams were diligent, ensuring all homeless persons were counted and tallied according to these observed categories:

Ind	lividuals:	Family Members:	Notations:
»	Adult male	» Adult male	» Vehicles (cars, vans, RV's, campers, etc.)
»	Adult female	» Adult female	» Encampments
»	Unaccompanied Children (under age 18)	» Children (under age 18)	» Abandoned buildings
»	Youth (age 18-24)		» Persons reported by park ranger
»	Adults of undetermined gender

Homeless guides were also instructed to include themselves on their tally sheets for the street count, if they were not going to be counted by a shelter or institutional census.

Upon their return, teams turned in their census tally forms and were debriefed by the deployment captains. Observational comments and the integrity of the enumeration effort were reviewed and assessed. This review was primarily done to check for double-counting (i.e., counting a family as both family members and individuals) and to verify that every accessible road within the assigned area was enumerated.

No direct contact with enumerated homeless people was made during the census enumeration. To avoid potential duplicate counting of unsheltered and sheltered homeless persons, it was imperative to enumerate during the narrow timeframe when sheltered and unsheltered homeless do not co-mingle. Administering the survey in conjunction with the census would have taken up too much of this narrow timeframe, thereby increasing the likelihood of duplication between the street and sheltered homeless counts, and jeopardizing the accuracy of the census. Thus, observation-only enumeration strategies were employed during the census, and the survey component of this project began after the census was completed.

Additionally, because unaccompanied youth tend to be difficult to enumerate since they do not usually co-mingle with the adult homeless population, special youth enumeration teams consisting of homeless youth and formerly homeless youth were formed to enumerate unaccompanied homeless youth. These youth enumerators were deployed from the Bill Wilson Drop-In Center and were given a general geographical area in the Santa Clara County to enumerate rather than specific census tract maps. These teams counted between 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. when homeless youth are most likely to be visible on the streets. They enumerated both unaccompanied homeless children (under the age of 18) and youth (under the age of 25). The teams kept track of the locations where the homeless youth were sighted by recording the nearest intersection. Compared to the general street census results, the youth teams found considerably more unaccompanied homeless youth and in locations different from where unaccompanied youth were found in the morning effort. Therefore the research team felt there was little worry of duplication. The youth enumerated by these special teams were assigned census tract locations post-facto and were integrated into the overall countywide enumeration results.

Although any homeless enumeration is vulnerable to an undercount, all of the people, vehicles, encampments, and abandoned buildings tallied during the point-in-time street count were visually observed by enumerators. By reporting only what was observed, ASR the City of San Jose and Santa Clara County are highly confident that the street count results are as accurate and as valid as possible. There are no means to ensure that those enumerated were actually members of the homeless population. However, when potential enumerators were polled during the training sessions, most trainees, especially homeless workers, indicated they would have no difficulty in telling the difference between an unsheltered homeless person and a member of the general public.

Shelter and Institution Count Methodology

Goal

The goal of the shelter count was to gain an accurate count of the number of homeless persons who were being temporarily housed in shelters and other institutions in San Jose, and in Santa Clara County as a whole. These data were vital to gaining an accurate overall count of the homeless population and understanding where homeless persons received shelter.

Data Collection

The basic approach was to identify and contact as many agencies as possible that temporarily house homeless people and request that those agencies send ASR a count of the number of homeless persons housed in their programs on the night of January 24, 2011. In 2011, the participating shelters were determined by those listed on the Housing Inventory Chart reported to HUD. Participating agencies included:

- Emergency Shelters
- Transitional Housing Facilities
- Safe Havens

Shelter facilities reported their occupancies for the night prior to the first day of enumeration to Applied Survey Research through an online survey, paper survey or telephone call.

Homeless Census Challenges and Assumptions

Challenges

There are many challenges in any homeless enumeration, especially when implemented in a community as diverse and large as Santa Clara County. While homeless populations are usually concentrated around city emergency shelters and homeless service facilities, homeless individuals and families can also be found in suburbs, commercial districts, and outlying county areas that are not easily accessible by enumerators. Homeless populations include numerous difficult-to-enumerate subsets such as:

- Chronically homeless persons who may or may not access social, health, or shelter services,
- Persons living in vehicles who relocate every few days,
- Persons who have children and therefore stay "under the radar" for fear of having to turn their children over to Child Protective Services,
- Homeless youth, who tend to keep themselves less visible than homeless adults,
- Homeless people who live in isolated rural areas, and
- Homeless people who sleep in unfit structures.

Census Undercount

For a variety of reasons, homeless persons generally do not want to be seen, and make concerted efforts to avoid detection. Regardless of how successful the outreach effort is, an undercount of the homeless population will result, especially of hard-to-reach subpopulations such as unaccompanied youth and families.

In a non-intrusive, point-in-time, visual homeless enumeration, the methods employed, while academically sound, have inherent biases and shortcomings. Even with the assistance of dedicated homeless service providers and currently or previously homeless census enumerators, the methodology cannot guarantee 100% accuracy. Many factors may contribute to missed opportunities, for example:

- Homeless individuals often occupy abandoned buildings and other structures unfit for human habitation.
- Homeless youth are suspected to keep a distance from the general homeless population, for their own safety.
- Homeless families with children often seek opportunities to stay on private property, rather than sleep on the streets, in vehicles, or makeshift shelters.
- It can be difficult to identify homeless persons who may be sleeping in vans, cars, or recreational vehicles.

By counting the minimum number of homeless persons on the streets at a given point-in-time, the homeless census methodology is conservative and therefore most likely results in an undercount of homeless persons with immigration issues, some of the working homeless, families, and street youth. This conservative approach is necessary to preserve the integrity of the data collected. Even though the census is most likely to be an undercount of the homeless population, the methodology employed, coupled with the homeless survey, is the most comprehensive approach available.

Assumptions of Annual Estimation

The calculations used to project an annual estimate of homelessness are based on two very important assumptions.

- The information gathered by the homeless survey is indicative of responses that would have been given at any other time during the year and is representative of the general diversity of the study area's homeless population.
- The point-in-time census count is reasonably indicative of a count that would have been obtained at any other time during the year.

Service providers have supported these assumptions by indicating that the demand for services stayed relatively consistent over time. Additionally, the total number of homeless accessing services does not fluctuate to a great degree, although the proportion of sheltered versus unsheltered homeless does vary with the seasons.

Estimates of the number of people who experience homelessness in a given year are important for planning purposes and HUD reporting requirements. Because many homeless experiences are relatively short-term (i.e., less than a year), it is important to account for this phenomenon when determining the annual demand for homeless services.

Given the size of the survey sample (674 persons in San Jose), the statistical reliability of the projections, the undercount inherent in any homeless census, as well as the use of a HUD-approved annualization calculation, the project committee and Applied Survey Research have determined that this methodology was the most complete and accurate of all available approaches.

Survey Methodology

Planning and Implementation

The survey of 1,009 homeless persons was conducted in order to yield qualitative data about the homeless community in Santa Clara County. These data were used for the McKinney-Vento Continuum of Care Homeless Assistance funding application and are important for future program development and planning. Conducting 674 surveys in the City of San Jose ensured accurate representation of the city's homeless population. The survey elicited information such as gender, family status, military service, length and recurrence of homelessness, usual nighttime accommodations, causes of homelessness, and access to services through open-ended, closed-ended, and multiple response questions. The survey data bring greater perspective to current issues of homelessness and to the provision and delivery of services. The survey findings also provide a measure of the changes in the composition of the homeless population since 2009.

In addition to the general survey, youth under the age of 25 were given an additional 28 questions, which asked specifically about their experience as homeless children and youth. In total 152 of the 674 surveys were conducted with San Jose City youth. These surveys were conducted by other homeless youth workers in order to maintain the peer-to-peer protocol. The overall protocol for youth surveys was similar to the general survey; however youth under the age of 18 were asked to sign an informed consent and were given the option of filling out surveys on their own.

Surveys were conducted by homeless workers and service provider volunteers who were trained by Applied Survey Research. Training sessions led potential interviewers through a comprehensive orientation that included project background information and detailed instruction on respondent eligibility, interviewing protocol, and confidentiality. Because of confidentiality and privacy issues, service providers typically conducted the surveys administered within shelters. No self-administered surveys were accepted from individuals over the age of 18 in order to maintain a standardized and consistent protocol. Homeless workers were compensated at a rate of $5.00 per completed survey.

It was determined that survey data would be more easily collected if an incentive gift was offered to respondents in appreciation for their time and participation. A small duffle bag was selected as an incentive to participate in the survey. These bags were easy to obtain and distribute, were thought to have wide appeal, and could be provided within the project budget.

Survey Sampling

In order to select a random sample of respondents, survey workers were trained to employ a randomized "every third encounter" survey approach. Survey workers were instructed to approach the third person they encountered whom they considered to be an eligible survey respondent.⁴⁴ If the person declined to take the survey, the survey worker could approach the next eligible person they encountered. After completing a survey, the randomized approach was resumed.

The survey workers also maintained a record of the number of person who refused to participate in the survey. Overall, the majority (72%) of surveys were completed without receiving any refusals. Twenty-two percent (22%) of surveys had between one and three refusals, meaning that the surveyor had to approach up to three individuals prior to having a respondent complete the survey. While refusals are expected and acceptable in data collection, we should note that non-responders may represent a different demographic than those who did respond.

Strategic attempts were made to reach individuals in various geographic locations and of various subset groups such as homeless youth, minority ethnic groups, military veterans, domestic violence victims, and families, including recruiting survey workers from these subset groups. As part of the youth homeless enumeration effort, a team of eight homeless youth were trained to administer surveys to other homeless youth.

Trained homeless interviewers administered surveys to the "street" homeless. These workers were used as interviewers because they were familiar with the conditions, challenges, and likely locations of homeless persons, and they may therefore be more likely to obtain survey question responses from the homeless respondents. This peer-to-peer approach may also encourage more candid responses by lessening the suspicion or apprehension of the respondent and helping to build rapport between the survey worker and respondent. Interviewers were asked to inquire if the homeless person had already taken the survey, and if not, if they were willing to do so, knowing there was a "thank you" gift at the completion of the survey. Workers were also asked to remain unbiased at all times, make no assumptions or prompts, keep all responses anonymous and confidential, and ask all questions, but allow respondents to skip any question they did not feel comfortable answering.

⁴⁴ The survey method of systematically interviewing every *n*th person encountered in a location is recommended by HUD in their publication, A Guide to Counting Unsheltered Homeless People, Second Revision, January 2008, p. 37. © Applied Survey Research, 2011

Surveys were also administrated in shelters and transitional housing programs. In order to assure the representation of transitional housing residents, who can be underrepresented in a street-based survey, survey quotas were created to reach individuals and heads of family households living in these programs. Seven transitional housing facilities in the City of San Jose, including family- and youth-focused programs, participated in the survey effort. Typically, program staff conducted those surveys. The same survey was used in both shelter and street environments. Altogether, approximately 35% of all county survey respondents were sheltered homeless, and the remaining 65% were unsheltered homeless.

Based on a point-in-time estimate of 4,034 homeless persons, with a randomized survey sampling process, the 674 valid surveys represent a confidence interval of \pm 3.48% with a 95% confidence level when generalizing the results of the survey to the estimated population of homeless individuals in the city of San Jose.

Data Collection

Care was taken by interviewers to ensure that respondents felt comfortable regardless of the street or shelter location where the survey occurred. During the interviews, respondents were encouraged to be candid in their responses and were informed that these responses would be framed as general findings, would be kept confidential, and would not be traceable to any one individual.

Overall, the interviewers experienced excellent cooperation from respondents. This was likely influenced by the fact that nearly all of the street interviewers were homeless workers who had previously been, or were currently, fellow members of the homeless community. Another reason for interview cooperation may have been the incentive gift, which was given to respondents upon the completion of the interview.

Data Analysis

Survey Administration Details

- The 2011 Santa Clara County Homeless Survey was administered by the trained survey team between February 6, 2011 and March 24, 2011.
- The majority (74%) of surveys did not have any refusals.
- The sample of valid surveys totaled 1,009 in Santa Clara County, 674 in San Jose.

In order to avoid potential duplication of respondents, the survey requested respondents' initials and date of birth, so that duplication could be avoided without compromising the respondents' anonymity. Upon completion of the survey effort, an extensive verification process was conducted to eliminate duplicates. This process examined respondents' date of birth, initials, gender, ethnicity, and length of homelessness, and consistencies in patterns of responses to other questions on the survey. Overall, 11 surveys excluded from the Santa Clara County Homeless Survey due to duplication of respondents.

Survey Challenges and Limitations

The 2011 City of San Jose Homeless Survey did not include an equal representation of all homeless experiences. However, as mentioned previously, based on a point-in-time estimate of 4,034 homeless persons, the 674 valid surveys represent a confidence interval of +/- 3.48% with a 95% confidence level when generalizing the results of the survey to the estimated homeless population in Santa Clara County. These confidences can be applied to the survey findings because the survey was randomly administered.

In self-reporting survey research, as was conducted by this survey, there is always some room for misrepresentation. Since there is no mechanism to separate truth from fiction in survey responses, it is important to make every effort to elicit the most truthful responses from interviewees. Using a peer interviewing methodology is believed to allow the respondents to be more candid with their answers, and may help reduce the uneasiness of revealing personal information. It should be noted that the responses provided for this survey are consistent based on reviews by service providers who:

- Selected reliable interviewers who had completed a comprehensive training, and
- Reviewed the surveys and ensured quality responses.

Surveys that were thought to contain false or fictional responses were not accepted.

APPENDIX VI: DEFINITIONS AND ABBREVIATIONS

Chronic homelessness is defined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs as "an unaccompanied homeless individual with a disabling condition who has either been continuously homeless for a year or more, or has had at least four episodes of homelessness in the past three years."

Disabling condition, for the purposes of this study, is defined as a physical disability, mental illness, severe depression, alcohol or drug abuse, chronic health problems, HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, Hepatitis C, Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), or developmental disability.

Emergency shelter is the provision of a safe alternative to the streets, either in a shelter facility, or through the use of motel vouchers. Emergency shelter is short-term, usually for 30 days or less. Domestic violence shelters are typically considered a type of emergency shelter, as they provide safe, immediate housing for victims and their children.

Family is defined by HUD as either an adult couple or a single adult with one or more minor children present.

Homeless persons, according to the Stewart B. McKinney Act of 1987, are people who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence, and have a primary nighttime residence that is either a public or private shelter, an institution that provides temporary residence for individuals intended to be institutionalized, or a public or private location that is not designed for, or ordinarily used as, a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings.

HUD – United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Sheltered homeless individuals are those homeless individuals who are living in emergency shelters or transitional housing programs.

Single individual refers to an unaccompanied adult or youth.

Transitional housing facilitates the movement of homeless individuals and families to permanent housing. It is housing in which homeless individuals may live up to 24 months and receive supportive services that enable them to live more independently. Supportive services – which help promote residential stability, increased skill level or income, and greater self-determination – may be provided by the organization managing the housing, or coordinated by that organization and provided by other public or private agencies. Transitional housing can be provided in one structure or several structures at one site, or in multiple structures at scattered sites.

Unsheltered homeless persons are those homeless persons who are living on the streets, in abandoned buildings, storage structures, vehicles, encampments, or any other place unfit for human habitation.
