

Bay Area Bike Share launched as an integrated system in August 2013 in San Jose, San Francisco, Palo Alto, Mountain View, and Redwood City. San Jose currently has 16 stations, with another seven funded and 20 more proposed as part of a grant submitted to the state by the Metropolitan District Commission. The new stations will extend the program to Berryessa, where Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) service will begin in 2017. Other expansion areas include Japantown, Midtown, and the Alameda. Updated 4/24/2014.
