

Nathan Donato-Weinstein

Nathan Donato-Weinstein is a business development officer for San Jose's Office of Economic Development. The department leads the city's economic strategy, provides assistance for business success, connects employers with trained workers, manages city real estate and supports the arts. San Jose's business development team is tasked with engaging with companies, developers and brokers to facilitate opportunities for growth in San Jose. Services include site-selection assistance, development facilitation and permit assistance. Prior to joining the city, Nathan was the real estate reporter at the Silicon Valley Business Journal, with a focus on deal coverage, policy, market trends and transportation. He is particularly interested in the future of retail, office design and talent attraction. He first fell in love with cities as a child, playing SimCity for hours on end. His hobbies include riding his bike on the Los Gatos Creek Trail and collecting retro computer paraphernalia.
