Rebuttal to the Argument Against Measure E.

The facts are clear. San José has seen its homeless population soar as we have become the least affordable city in the nation.

See the facts for yourself at AffordableSJ.com/facts.

We can't call the lack of affordable housing a crisis, but refuse to take action. Measure E is the thoughtful action we need now.

We can't keep losing our middle class and preserve the city we love. We can't see our first responders driven from San José and stay safe. Measure E helps keep first responders and middle-class workers in San José.

San José is already leading in innovations to get housing built more cost-effectively. We are rapidly expanding low-cost backyard cottages, tiny homes, modular and prefabricated construction, rehabilitated motel conversions, and other proven means to house homeless and expand affordable options for working families. Measure E accelerates these innovations.

See how Measure E will fund cost-effective innovations at AffordableSJ.com/innovation.

A broad and growing coalition of housing experts and neighborhood and community leaders are uniting in support of Measure E because it helps fund the cost-effective programs that create affordable homes for those who need them most.

A Citizens Oversight committee will ensure the Council focuses Measure E dollars on housing our homeless, and on making San José more affordable for nurses, teachers, first responders, and other working San Joséans.

If you agree that we need to help house the homeless and keep the middle class in San José – please join us at AffordableSJ.com/join.

END

Vote Yes on Measure E.

Raul Peralez, Councilmember, City of San José
Michele Lew, Chief Executive Officer, The Health Trust
Alma Castillo, Small Business Owner
Kristen Bernhardt, Fourth Grade Teacher
Burt Smith, Member, Vietnam Veterans of America
